

Blood in Stools - You need to see a Doctor!

- If you experience bleeding in stools, it is advisable to contact your doctor.
- Rectal bleeding can be caused by a lot of things, including hemorrhoids/piles and cancers.
- Your doctor can carry out a physical examination and perform other tests to determine whether or not you have hemorrhoids.
- Hemorrhoids can be extremely unpleasant and painful for many people, but they can be easily treated and often prevented.
- Hemorrhoids generally get worse as time goes by.

Who should see us?

- ✓ If you have significant alteration in bowel habits,
- ✓ If your stools are very dark or even black,
- ✓ If there are blood clots or blood mixed in with the stools,
- ✓ You should see us immediately!

By:

Dr. K.N. Srivastava
Sr. Consultant & HOD

Dr. Amit Agarwal
Associate Consultant
General & Minimal Access Surgery Department